

Dear FCC Commissioners & Staff:

Hi there,

I am just a little person very content with the service I receive from a small internet provider. I have not once but twenty times been sent information encouraging me to link my computer service to my phone service (not interested) and to link computer service to cable service (not interested.) In fact, it appears that the only two people not happy with my internet service is myself and my provider.

However, I hear that the idea of blocking small companies from offering broadband internet service is being brandied about, and I want to clearly inform you that I am in favor of restricting smaller companies from the means of keeping ME HAPPY!

Say no to restricting broadbands.

Sincerely,

Dennis Pattinson
